Les Heures Fabuleuses de Cartier Two of a kind

A veritable collection of jewellery timepieces featuring 41 pieces, including 23 unique editions, the Heures Fabuleuses de Cartier make light of reality; enchanted tales to be told as time is transformed, the stage for a spirited bestiary whose secrets and tricks conjure a time that is more than it seems.

A collection that proclaims, like a Surrealist manifesto: “This is not a watch”.

Yet time is their destiny, diverted along the way, for the fun of it, the love of intrigue. A very feminine seduction from the most extravagant jewels, amazingly precious, inscribed in the Cartier tradition of ingenious watchmaking yet poised for transformation, the guarantee of supreme elegance.

These watches are uniquely two of a kind – a jewellery performance when a diamond snake slips off the face to glide over a lapel as a brooch. And what hides behind this tortoise-shell studded with diamond scales? Illusion, now you see it, now you don’t – Cartier is a watchmaking wizard with the gift of conjuring up extraordinary pieces.

The most precious watches, jewels of excellence and savoir-faire: the expertise of the watchmaker, who makes a diamond phoenix oscillate in time with the movement, and the skill of the jeweller, who transforms a chain into a delicate brooch.

Time is elusive

Playing on an apparition, miracles of jewellery, Cartier pictures a metamorphosis of time, watches that can play any role, now a brooch, now a pendant, now a watch – or all three at a time. Tripling their functions for a fantastically playful bestiary, a snake, a frog, an elephant, the elusive heroes of a watchmaking fable where time is the jewel in the crown.

This is not a watch, it is a volatile peacock, whose flight releases it from its mother-of-pearl marquetry face. A bejewelled brooch set with brilliant-cut diamonds on a ruby flower framed by nephrite jade leaves. Sometimes it alights on the face, clipping itself on to form a figure in the round whose volumes carve out time. Sometimes it leaves the hours free to reveal their mother-of-pearl field, blooming with sculpted white gold, studded with red and green in a hail of dazzling brilliant-cut diamonds.

This is not a watch, it is a brooch, a diamond snake that clips onto the black enamel face of a watch landscaped with flowers and garnet butterflies. A technical virtuosity that works three ways, as an animal watch, a landscape watch and a snake brooch, all bound by the same keen sense of aesthetics and poetry.

This is not a watch, it is a tiara, a bracelet and a brooch... Time beats at the heart of a creativity conceived from the most fanciful adaptation. Crowned with light, in reference to the famous style reinvented by Cartier. An essential design in clean pure lines for a creation illuminated by the glorious spark of a cushion rose-cut diamond.

This is not a watch, it is an elephant. No, it is a chain, or a pocket watch or why not all of the above? Here lies the true subtlety of the trick, the magic of a chain set with brilliant-cut diamonds on which an independent watch can hang, an elephant carousel which opens to reveal hours set with brown diamond beads.

Time is unpredictable

The secret is in the art, the art is in the secret, beautiful both inside and out, the surprise hidden within. Time concealed by the splendour of a morganite, a bird's plumage, a nest of diamonds, poetic variations around a now unpredictable time, around which Cartier cultivates all the mystery. The hours appear or disappear on a whim or a fancy, precious hours whose jewelled refinements vie with creative imagination.

Time to see, time to hide, a tortoise plays with the hours that it guards. A sentinel on which a morganite is set, a gemstone shell that can open to reveal an oval silver watch dial. Is it a jewel? Is it a watch? Where is time hiding? It is true Cartier tradition to dream up watches that keep secrets, like this tortoise whose rounded shell, a veritable sculpture of diamonds, opens onto the surprise of dissimulated time.

Time has its tricks, its unseen illusions that keep the imagination ticking behind this transformable jewel full of surprises. Two lady parrots set with brilliant-cut diamonds and baguette-cut rubies share a well-kept secret, perched from a chain of ruby beads and rose-cut diamonds. Two birds for a motif destined to become an onyx and brilliant-cut diamonds brooch whose delightful little nest hides a miniature timepiece.

And what if a ring could tell the time? Nothing here implies that it might: neither the ruffled diamond feathers, nor the mother-of-pearl beak, nor the emerald eyes of a perfectly harmonious parrot. The illusion seems faultless: how astonishing to discover a confidential watch face, imperceptibly hidden, mysteriously revealed as a total surprise.

Time is special

When hours become fanciful, defy time, enjoy the sheer beauty of a gesture, a movement, the freedom of the most precious watches that boldly adopt creative forms in an irresistible bestiary. High jewellery timepieces enchanted with spectacular stones, such as oversized beryl, oscillating movements, and bracelets that glitter with diamonds.

A diamond phoenix whose outspread wings hug the curve of a violet mother-of-pear face, adorned with feather motifs. It takes flight, the oscillations follow the movement, precious wings driven by a rondo dance that wind the watch up as they go.

Is it a bracelet? A watch? A timely adornment that glitters face to face: on one end a green beryl set in an openwork mesh of diamonds that transparently reveals the pavilion, on the other a small watch framed by brilliant-cut diamonds. A tête-à-tête between timepiece and jewellery, or the art of imagining a host of buoyant brilliant-cut diamonds, heightened by the contrast of green and white, time and eternity.
